| MAE4191 Master's Thesis           | - Rolf Vegar and Esther Ulitzsch |

ITEM2/24      Evaluation of the autumn 2023 semester

First semester reflections:

- The students would like an automatic feedback/explanation after assignments and exams.
- Improvement needed on the coordination between courses so that the material and workload does not become overwhelming.
- MAE4001 and MAE4011 exams should be scheduled in different weeks.
- MAE4001 the students request a grading criteria before the exam.

- October became very busy with assignments and the MAE4000 exam.

Third semester reflections:

- Large amount of reading in the 5 ECTS courses (especially MAE4054 Study Design for Causal Inference and MAE4053 Survey Methodology).
- Some conflict with the teaching schedule and FREMO conference which the students wanted to attend (reason: course coordinators in Oslo one week)
- MAE4052, MAE4053 and MAE4054 seem somewhat ambitious.
- MAE4191 – after the proposal was delivered, most focused on exams and put the thesis aside. Could be good to have some in class assignments where the students must work on the thesis.
- MAE4112 students are overall satisfied

ITEM 3/24    Promotion of the Master's Programme

- Specific examples on the programme page “Why choose this programme if you have a Bachelor in Psychology, etc.”
- Coordination with the Faculty of Social Sciences
- Social media

ITEM 4/24    Meeting plan 2024

Meeting plan approved.

ITEM 5/24    Any other business
