

Workshop for PhD-candidates on October 16-17, 2017

Journal publication – writing an abstract, reading peer reviews and writing revisions

Aims

- To develop strategies for getting published
- To improve the early paper draft or preliminary analysis
- To develop skills in writing a successful abstract for an international journal
- To improve the skills for interpreting and responding to feedback from peer reviewers.

Program

Monday, October 16th

09.15: Welcome

09.30: Strategies for getting published. Introduction by Professor Jorunn Møller

Writing a successful abstract

Reviewing and revising own abstract based on the introduction (work in pair)

Plenary discussion

12.00: Lunch

13.00: Reading and responding to peer review, with an emphasis on the revision process.
Introduction by Professor Helen Gunter

Work in small groups and plenary

1630 – 17.00: Plenary. Discussion of main issues from the group

17.00: End of Day 1

Tuesday, October 17th

09.15: Short presentations of participants' articles (draft), the rationale behind the choice of the journal, and an explanation on how the article fit with the purpose, genre and content of the journal.

Work in feedback groups led by Jorunn Møller and Helen Gunter

13.00: End of Day 2