

Guidelines regular papers NORMA20

NORMA contributions must be about research (empirical, theoretical, or developmental). The following six elements must be addressed in the paper:

- Objective/s or purpose/s of the research
- Perspective(s) or theoretical framework
- Methods, techniques, or modes of inquiry
- Data sources, evidence, objects, or materials
- Results and/or substantiated conclusions or warrants for arguments/point of view
- Scientific or scholarly significance of the study or work

Format

Use the CERME11 template that you can find on the Norma20 website. The format of regular papers must be as follows:

- Restrict your paper to a maximum of eight pages, including references, figures and appendices.
- Indicate up to five key-words for the paper
- Give references in the APA style (preferable APA7).

Papers not using the CERME- template and this format in full will not be accepted.

Submission

All revised papers must be submitted using the online submission tool. Submission deadline: July 1, 2021.

Authors are obliged to submit a blinded PDF-version of their paper together with a review response letter where they address how they have responded to the review response from the reviewers and the IPC.

The paper will not be sent out for a second review if the review response letter is missing.

Review process

Authors of regular papers are encouraged to resubmit their paper for consideration in the conference proceeding. As such, it is possible (and recommended) to use review feedback and feedback given during the presentation to improve the paper before submission.

The paper will be sent out to two of the original reviewers together with the review response letter. Regarding the advice of the reviewers and the IPCs reading of the paper and the review response, the paper can either be accepted, accepted with minor changes or rejected for the conference proceedings. If the paper is accepted with minor changes, authors will have three weeks to implement the changes before resubmitting the paper.

After acceptance, you will be asked to upload a named word version of your paper that will be used for the proceedings.

Publication

Papers that are accepted for publication, will be published in the conference proceedings that give publication credits according to the Nordic/Norwegian list (ISSN: 1651-3274).

The publisher is SMDF, Svensk Förening för Matematikdidaktisk Forskning, and the published proceedings will be available in digital format from their website and from the conference website. The copyright is retained by the authors, and all authors might upload/publish their paper on their university website and in archives such as Research gate.

Papers must be professionally proofread before the final submission. There will not be an opportunity to proofread after the paper is accepted and the production of the proceedings has started.

I do not want to resubmit my paper for the proceedings

If you do not want to resubmit your paper for consideration to the proceedings, that is fine. However, we ask that you notify us by an email to g.a.nortvedt@ils.uio.no.
